Commercial Exhibit Judging Today

PORTERVILLE, May 21 — Commercial exhibitors at the Porterville fair will have their chance at ribbon awards when booths are judged on the opening day of the fair, today.

Cameron Goode, who is in charge of booth judging, states that there will be two basic breakdowns — inside exhibits and outside exhibits.

Two categories have been set up for outside; Automotive, tractors and implements; and sporting goods.

Three categories will be judged in the exhibit building: Commercial displays, concessions, and youth groups.

Goode says that a percentage system will be used for judging: Following the fair theme of "Circus Days", 30 per cent; design and originality of exhibit, 30 per cent; appropriate costumes worn by booth attendants, 30 per cent; and neatness, 10 per cent.

Judging is set for 5:30 p.m.; ribbons will be awarded for first through fourth place in each category.

AUCTION

If all animals survive screening, there will be 101 head of steers, 43 fat barrows and 69 fat lambs up for sale at the Porterville Fair Junior Fat Stock auction Saturday afternoon, starting at 1 p.m. All are top project animals, groomed and finished for the show ring, by Future Farmers and 4-H club members.

Editorial Comment

WE THINK IT'S PLANNED THAT WAY

Through the 30-or-so-years of federal government take-over in the area of agriculture, the cattle industry has stood firm, run its own affairs, resisted attempts at federal control, and generally prospered.

This the federal government, as represented by the secretary of agriculture and the department of agriculture, does not like. So what appears to us to be a planned program is now underway to force the cattlemen into federal subservience.

Here is the script:

Back in 1961 the federal administration rushed through a feed-grain program which grain producers did not accept (they voted less than 50 per cent for the program) in fact that brought some pretty tough talk from the administration, followed by the dumping of several hundred million bushels of Commodity Credit corporation corn on the market to "punish" the non-cooperating farmers.

Result was that corn prices dropped to under 94 cents per bushel, but this seemed to be what the country needed, since volume of feed grain production started, and continued to climb.

In the cattle business, cheap feed means cheap beef for the consumer; cattlemen generally expanded their operation with virtual assurance that feed grain prices would not increase, and grain producers and cattle appeared to be adjusting to the economic situation just as they had adjusted many times in years gone by.

But cattlemen now have a new problem rammed down their throats by the federal government — the foreign relations program, which is one of those "do-gooder" deals that apparently only further complicates the situation.

Since 1960, imports of beef and veal into the United States have more than doubled. The cattle industry has "lived with" this situation in a realistic manner. But now there is a new "commodity arrangement" that will allow Australia and New Zealand a bigger share of the American meat market in the future in return for a temporary cutback of their meat imports until after the November elections. That's right, until after the November election, then more meat from down under.

Meanwhile the secretary of agriculture is "concerned" about what his programs are doing not for, but to, the cattle industry. He says he is "concerned" about the fact that the bottom has fallen out of the cattle market.

So the federal administration sends a delegation to Europe to find new markets for beef to get the cattle industry out of the red.

What the administration should do is let nature take its course in regard to feed grain production, let cattlemen adjust to meet the economic situation, and keep out foreign beef imports.

Annual Flower Show, sponsored by the Porterville Garden club, gets underway at 11 a.m. today; commercial exhibits will be judged at 5:30 p.m.

The Porterville fair, which is the largest event of its kind in California that operates without aid of state funds, is staged by a non-profit corporation of farmers, businessmen, Future Farmer and 4-H leaders primarily to benefit the FFA and 4-H programs, but to also provide three days and nights of old-fashioned fair fun for the entire family.

AT YOUR PORTERVILLE CITY LIBRARY

Charlotte Zolotow has written an attractive new book for the picture book set — THE QUARRELING BOOK. A chain of reactions is knitted and unraveled within one day that begins, rainy and gray, when Mr. James forgets to kiss Mrs. James good-by. As a result Mrs. James is cross with Jonathan, who is cross to Sally, who is unkind to her friend and so on down to the dog. Fortunately, the dog responds in a playful manner; so the day is saved and the chain reversed. The simplicity and truth of the idea and the humor of the illustrations are highly successful.

A picture story book on an ageless theme — a successful dragon slaying — has been artistically and deftly done by the author and artist team of James and Ruth McCrea. THE STORY OF OLAF is a "once upon a time" story of Olaf, a gentle pageboy, and two brave knights, Sir Egbert and Sir Charles. The story is designed in an original and distinctive way by the co-authors of THE KING'S PROCESSION, which had a similar format.

THE TURTLE AND THE DOVE is a new picture book by Don Freeman. The author-artist has created a distant world of misted ocean and island by using soft blue greens and grays in the clear serene pictures. The descriptions are terse and startling and the brief dialogue blends with the text. Listeners will enjoy the leisurely, drifting friendship of Dove and Turtle, the interlude of family-raising, and the eventual multi-Dove-Turtle reunion.

Maurice Sendak is the 1963 winner of the Caldecott award for his new book WHERE THE WILD THINGS ARE. The Caldecott Medal is given for the most distinguished American picture book for children. Original and superbly imaginative paintings and accompanying text tell the story of Max's satisfying adventures where the wild things are. The grotesque creatures with terrible teeth and claws are in no way frightening to either Max or the reader. The whole mood of this picture-book fantasy is one of playfulness and the ending is perfect.

State barley is estimated at 13 per cent less than 1963.

Now that the fair is taken care of all you have to worry about is graduation or maybe summer vacation. Meanwhile the crab grass grows onward and upward along with the aphid population. You have three choices here in that you can either fight them, join them, or ignore them.

If you're the fighting type, we will be happy to supply the weapons. The new crab grass controls are easy to use along with being very effective. Germins "12 Brand" crab grass killer can be applied dry with a spreader we'll loan you for free.

Along with this you should not mow your lawn too closely. Both bermuda and regular lawn grasses will shade out many weeds if not too short. Equally important are proper feeding and regular watering. Free advice on this and other non-political subjects gladly given.

If you prefer to ignore the whole thing our sympathies are with you. We only hope you'll drop by occasionally to let us know where the best fishing is or how your golf score is doing. By the way, if the greens have hard, dry spots that are interfering with your game, we sell Pentrex which will loosen up these areas. Also good for home use on lawns or biscuits.

unification and consolidation mandatory, or else. But the legislature assumes we are mice, so a chunk of cheese is held up, more commonly known as money, and we mice gather 'round, grumbling but hungry, and we take the cheese and the conditions... On second thought, this is not a comment in the Are We Mice Or Men Department. It is in the We Are Mice Department.

HOW MUCH should you and I be paid for the job we do? Popular answer: More than we are now being paid, and more than that next year and the year after and the year after. But wait a minute. How much do we earn?... First off, all of us have only one product to sell, that's ourselves and our abilities. Basically, we sell ourselves and our abilities in two general fields: 1: As paid employees working for someone else; 2. As individuals who through some sort of business or profession, sell ourselves and our abilities to the public. If we are in category No. 1, we sometimes get the idea that we are "entitled" to regular pay increases, and if we belong to a union, or if we work for a public agency, we often "organize" ourselves to "demand" continuing pay increases because we are "entitled" to them. If we are in category No. 2, we may be just as "entitled" to pay increases, but to get them, we have to sell ourselves, and sell our abilities just a little bit better. . . Personally, we reject the thinking that anyone, whether in category 1 or 2, is "entitled" to pay increases; we accept as basic the criterion that we can only "earn" pay increases by improving the product that we have to sell, namely, ourselves and our abilities... To those in category No. 1, particularly to those on the public pay roll, instead of drawing up comparisons with other public agencies, and instead of using the false theory of "entitlement" to pay increases, why don't you appear before your governing board and explain what you have done to "earn" a pay increase... Look, man, this would be revolutionary.

SO IT'S Porterville Fair time again. Come on out, bring the family, enjoy yourself and have fun. Remember that the Porterville Fair receives no state aid, it has to pay its own way, its directors are under a non-profit corporation setup through which all money received by the fair in any way must be used to produce, expand, and improve the fair, even directors pay their way at the gate, for the $1.50 adult admission you not only see the sights, but also a stage show that is worth three times the money when the same acts appear in Los Angeles, Hollywood, Las Vegas, Reno, Chicago, New York, at "name" entertainment spots, you can get a season ticket for $3.00, which in short, means you just can't beat the entertainment deal at the Porterville fair... And your money goes back into the fair, which is primarily designed to give a boost to Future Farmers and 4-H club members.

FEDERAL LABELING OF PESTICIDES IS "CATCHING UP" WITH CALIFORNIA

VISALIA, May 21 — The U.S. department of agriculture has announced more rigid regulations on labeling of pesticide chemicals, according to Tulare County Agricultural Commissioner Elvin O. Manskins.

The new regulations will call for warning and caution statements to be placed prominently on the label. These labels must include statements such as, "Keep Out of Reach of Children", or its equivalent, along with a "signal" word such as, "Danger", "Caution", or "Warning". These warnings will have to be easy to read, and must be of a certain size type.

The use of pest-controlling chemicals in and around homes has increased rapidly in recent years, making it essential that the public know how to handle them safely. For this reason, the U.S. department of agriculture is requiring that these extra precautionary statements be placed on the label — in a place where they are easily seen.

Most of the new regulations became effective on April 26. Any manufacturers who registered their products before the effective date will have until January 1, 1965, to comply with the new federal provisions.

abilities... To those in category No. 1, particularly to those on the public pay roll, instead of drawing up comparisons with other public agencies, and instead of using the false theory of "entitlement" to pay increases, why don't you appear before your governing board and explain what you have done to "earn" a pay increase... Look, man, this would be revolutionary.

Other changes have been made to update the U.S.D.A. regulations, bringing them in line with present practice. For example, a foreign language version of the label may now be used in addition to one in English, in those areas of the United States where such a language is spoken.

California law has required registration of all pesticides intended for sale in California for more than 40 years, including products for home and garden use. Before registration is issued, labels are carefully reviewed by state department of agriculture personnel. In some respects California requirements pertaining to labeling of pesticides have been in the lead of federal regulations.

What's Doing?

Sing along with telephone service? Americans have been doing it ever since the telephone was born... an event cheered by the rousing "Telephone March." Soon young swains were singing, "Hello, Central, Give Me Heaven." And phoning got so popular the girls had to remind them that "A Ring on the Finger is Worth Two on the Telephone." Overseas service was commemorated with a toe-tapper entitled, "Hello, Hawaii, How Are You?" Well, those are some of the oldies we've run across. These days, I understand, they're singing to our communications satellite "moon" with something called "Help Me, Telstar!" So telephone progress and the songs about it are still going strong.

If you're program chairman for your group or club, we may be able to help you with entertainment plans. Just call our business office and ask about our free films and demonstrations.

If you're going to take in Disneyland on your vacation, we hope you'll visit our popular Bell System exhibit there. It features the Circarama motion picture, "America the Beautiful," which takes you — via a complete-circle screen — on a spectacular coast-to-coast trip.

If, on the other hand, you're planning a trip to see the New York World's Fair, you'll enjoy visiting the Bell System exhibit there. It features an equally spectacular moving-chair ride through the history of communications.

Want to get the correct time? Call a ship at sea? Talk to our business office? Check the front pages of your phone book for the numbers to call and other helpful information about your telephone service.

WHAT TO DO IF ANYTHING EVER GOES WRONG WITH YOUR TELEPHONE.

Your telephone is built to take it. It has only one reason for being and that's to give you dependable, trouble-free service year after year after year. But, if anything should go wrong we'll gladly fix it without extra charge. All you have to do is call the Porterville "repair service" number listed in front of your phone book. Often, we can take care of the problem from your telephone central office. If necessary, we'll send someone out. Whatever the case, you'll never get a bill for repairs. This is one of the values that go with your service.

GRAND CHAMPION

Showman of the recent Arizona National

Livestock Showmanship contest, held recently in Tucson, was Vic Child, a Porterville high school graduate who is now a freshman at the University of Arizona. In the showmanship contest, sponsored by the Block and Bridle club of Tucson, Child won the heavy weight Hereford class, the over-all Hereford championship, then in round-robin showmanship with hogs, dairy cows, horses, sheep, Angus steers and Hereford steers, won the grand championship, to become the first University freshman to win this annual event. Child was one of the consistent winners at the Porterville fair over a period of several years, and had an outstanding record as a member of the Vandalia 4-H club. Above photos show Child in action, and with the grand championship trophy.

Strip Cutting Of Alfalfa Seen As Method Of "Trapping" Lygus Bugs And Keeping Them Out Of Cotton

By William R. Sallee and Alan G. George, Farm Advisors

VISALIA, May 21 — A new idea applied to alfalfa harvesting may greatly benefit growers of cotton, beans and other crops often seriously damaged by pests originating in alfalfa fields.

Dr. Vernon Stern, entomologist at the University of California, Riverside, says experiments with strip harvesting have been remarkably effective in preventing lygus bug damage to crops near alfalfa fields.

sition to seventh position.

A record sugar beet harvest in 1963 pushed the ranking for that commodity from fifteenth to eleventh position.

The "big five", cattle and calves, dairy products, cotton, hay, eggs, grapes, oranges, tomatoes, lettuce, and barley, in the order named.

Hay jumped from sixth position in the 1962 ranking to fourth position in 1963.

Oranges jumped from ninth po-

The idea is simple. Encourage the lygus bugs to stay where they are instead of migrating. As long as these insects stay in alfalfa fields they do little damage. But the bugs migrate from solid-cut alfalfa because the field becomes too hot and dry after harvest. As soon as they migrate into cotton, seed crops, beans, pears or strawberries, they cause severe losses unless quickly controlled by chemicals.

Lygus bug damage amounted to $13,500,000 in California in 1961, reports University of California entomologists. And growers spent $5,000,000 for chemical control of the pest. The bugs are extremely injurious because they attack the reproductive parts of crop plants, the flowers, bolls, seeds and fruit.

Drs. Robert van den Bosch, University of California, Berkeley, Thomas Leigh, University of California, Davis; and Dr. Stern conducted an experiment with strip cutting of alfalfa on three Kern county ranches harvested in alternating rows so that two different aged hay growths occurred in each field simultaneously.

The fields were never completely bare of hay. This created a favorable environment which encouraged lygus bugs to remain where they were or move to nearby strips of standing alfalfa. The idea worked. Lygus bugs moved from cut to uncut strips, the University of California scientists found, but did not multiply appreciably in the field, nor did they migrate to other crops nearby.

Further, they noted a "trapping" effect on lygus bugs resulting from strip harvesting. Adult bugs moving from cut to uncut strips laid eggs in the half-grown hay. Since this hay was only 15 days from harvest, nymphs hatched.

A TV picture that falls just a bit short of lifelike quality may be lacking in fine tuning. In fact, the fine tuning knob is perhaps the most overlooked of all tuning controls, despite its importance in providing the final touch of crisp detail necessary to a really good picture.

Get acquainted with this control; on most sets it is the knob surrounding the channel selector.

For quick economical repairs, you had better get acquainted with DARE'S TELEVISION SERVICE. Whatever the trouble, call us on the double — DARE'S TELEVISION SERVICE, 7368 W. Olive, that is. Phone 784-6209 . . . Quality work . . . Cash basis.

FEDERAL LABELING

Labels for pesticides registered in California now contain the information which is being required by the new U.S.D.A. regulations but some rearrangement may be required.

When used properly and in accordance with the instructions on the label, these chemicals are beneficial in eliminating pests.

Commissioner Mankins advises all persons to use these materials only as directed and to keep them in a safe place, out of the reach of children.

Strip Cutting

 ing from the eggs hadn't time enough to develop. The trapped nymphs died as soon as the hay was harvested because of exposure to high temperature and lack of moisture.

A side benefit for the alfalfa grower was observed by Drs. Stern, van den Bosch and Leigh: No chemical treatments were required to control caterpillars in the strip-cut alfalfa on one ranch.

"On the other hand", they reported, "most solid-cut alfalfa fields in the area were treated one or two times during the later summer or fall for alfalfa caterpillar
 and western yellow-striped army-worm.

"This would seem to indicate that strip cutting was directly beneficial in helping reduce pests of alfalfa. Further, one cooperator reported little added cost in strip-cutting. There may have been extra costs in moving the cutting and baling equipment from one small field to another."

The University of California
 scientists plan to investigate strip harvesting further before making final conclusions about its over-all economic value.

At present, however, they believe that it has good potentialities as a means of: (1) reducing chemical control measures against lygus bugs; (2) reducing chemical residues in alfalfa resulting from drifting chemicals used on nearby crops where the bug is a pest; (3) reducing air and water pollution caused by such treatments; and (4) delaying the development of resistance in insects and mites resulting from the treatments.

They conducted the research on the W. B. Camp and Sons ranch, the Fox and William Farms, and Sill Properties, Inc., all in Kern county. Tulare County cotton and alfalfa growers are urged to adopt
 strip cutting to reduce lygus damage in cotton, beans and other crops.

CHAPEL CHIMES

By
 Rev. N. J.
 Thompson

Mrs. Indira Gandhi, daughter of Prime Minister Nehru of India, speaking at the opening of the New York World's Fair, April 22, said, "The Fair is a salute to the world's emergence into the Space Age, to man's prodigious advance in the fields of science and technology. You will see many mar-vels here. But perhaps you will wonder — where are we heading?
 Of what avail is the march of technology to two-thirds of the human race if they are still denied the bare necessities of life? Of what avail are the marvels of space to you and me, if they do not enable us to live in harmony with ourselves? Far from resolving problems, our Space Age has created new ones. The crucial problem
 today is the crisis of man's conscience — a crisis which demands answers equal in magnitude to the challenge."

The "crisis of man's conscience"
 — Mrs. Gandhi sums up the world's troubles in a nutshell.

Reading about rape, robbery
 and riots, mayhem and murder,
 vice and violence and general cussedness, one can't help wondering what's happened to man's conscience. We spend billions of dollars to train scientists and to invent things — but what do we spend on Biblical archeology, or to study Divine Healing, or the miracle of Answered Prayer?

The crisis of man's conscience
 has brought upon us an epoch
 characterized by shallowness, fear, compromise, and confusion. We need a resurgence of religious faith. We need to live by the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule.

You and I can help solve the crisis by following the example of St. Paul, who said, "Herein do I exercise myself, to have always a conscience void of offence toward God, and toward men", Acts 24:16

alfalfa growers are urged to adopt
 strip cutting to reduce lygus damage in cotton, beans and other
 crops.

FAIR DIRECTOR Lloyd Rider
 proves that the Porterville fair has working directors, as he got facilities ready in the poultry and rabbit section, which he heads. His only comment was "why was the sawdust dumped so far from his building?" (Farm Tribune photo)

Time Out

By Davis Harp

LIONS AND TIGERS ARE GONE, AND THE FIELD IS A DESERT

They used to say that lions and tigers and beasts of every description lived in the high weeds in the field that lies on the corner of Villa and Putnam streets. Back in those days (two months ago) the field was over-grown with wild mustard, sun flowers, milk weed, and a real miscellany of purely unproductive plant life. It was a god-awful, terrible, and somehow beautiful sight.

A path ran diagonally across the field. It jumped off sharply at the south end of the Porter Slough bridge and meandered, almost without direction, to the southeast until it ran smack into the front door of a small neighborhood store. When you walked down the path on a Sunday afternoon with a couple of small daughters in tow it was easy to hear the lions and tigers growling and roaring and thrashing about in the weeds off to the right and left.

so is the path. But, it isn't the same. They plowed all the weeds and left the field barren and dusty. Now all the lions and tigers are gone, and the trips to the store are still fun, but they are apt to get a little boring, not having to be on your guard against beasts of prey. Oh, once in a while the field may become a vast desert and we all nearly die of thirst before we reach the store and its supply of penny candy, but it still isn't the same. We think that the Indians even left, at least we haven't heard them for several weeks.

We wonder where the lions and tigers went, we kind of miss them.

LOOK FOR HATCH OF LEAFHOPPERS

VISALIA, May 21 — Because of the prolonged cool spring, the first grape leafhopper nymphs will not hatch in Tulare county vineyards until mid-May, about two weeks later than normal. Fred Jensen, farm advisor, says that the hatch will probably not be nearly as heavy as first expected from the large numbers of overwintering adults. Decision as to the necessity of treatment should be based on the numbers of nymphs that hatch. Where treatment proves necessary, the suggested materials are Thiodan as a dust or spray or Delnav as a spray.
